

MA Distinction

22/10/2013

I'm very pleased to have graduated with distinction for the MA in Learning and Teaching in Higher Education. I did half the course as APEL (Accredited Prior Experiential Learning) by submitting academic reports on previously undertaken commercial projects or teaching experience, the rest were taught modules in assessment, e-learning and academic theory. The dissertation was a particular success, with my research now being disseminated elsewhere in the academic (and hopefully commercial) community.

The research is available in full at <http://webteach.penworks.net/research>. The site forms the actual assessed work (submitted artefact), so you can see the complete process as the assessors saw it.

[Update - today (19/11/13) I received my certificate. Really pleased.]
